On the other hand, there is more reaso to suppose that those are right who predict that the Tilden delegates will go for a new man, because such a caudidate will not only be less objectionable to their chief, but will feel that he owes his candidacy to them. Delegates to national conventions who have a strong organization do not usually transfer it to a rival of their defeated favorite. for in doing this they have to play second fiddle to his original friends. This is the reason the Blaine and Sherman men at Chicago were more willing to go to Garfield than to Grant, and the Grant men to support Edmunds or Windom than Blaine. The following is the platform adopted by the North Carolina Democrats Thursday. It could not well be made better or briefer

The various letters and communications in regard to Governor Seymour and his reported unwillingness to accept the office of President, coupled with the intimations that Mr. Tilden will not be called on to be a candidate, or if a candidate will not have the support of the Kelly wing of the Dem ocratic party in the State of New York, wellnight force upon us the conviction that the Convention should not endeavor to obtain a candidate from the eastern States. In tain a candidate from the eastern States. In the midst of such personal rivalry and con-tontion it beheoves us to look elsewhere for a candidate. Fortunately it is in the power of the Convention to select a candi-date with every personal and moral endow-ment, and from a part of the United States whose growth in wealth and population dates for President and Vice-President will look to the great and important changes that have been effected in the business and commercial relations of the various parts of the Union to guide them in their choice. The railroad system of the West and Southwest and the wealth and population of the chief cities of Ohio, Missouri, and Illinois are turning the tide of business and pleasure to the cities of Cincinnafi, St. Louis, and Chicago. The connections are daily becoming closer and more intimate. It seems, then, proper and appropriate that a party looking for success for its nominees should choose the can-dicate for the first office from one of these States, which has shown such efforts to bend her social and commercial relations with the great Democratic States of the bouth. Prominent among these States is Ohio-with per great Cincinnati South-ern railread penetrating into the heart Hanceck, or Field to secure what all Tilden of the South, and inviting and re-South-Atlantic and Southern States. people of this State and of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin are tired of the sectional war that has been so long kept up by northern politicians. California Democrats Furioss.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17 .- A report of the Herald's interview with ex-Senator Gwin in New York in relation to the candidacy of Judge Field and the California delegation was telegraphed here, and creates great ommotion among all classes of Democrats. Indignation meetings are urgently talked of both here and in the country. Mr. Pearce, of Sonora, who was chairman of the Committee on the Platform in the State Convention, says that the Democrats of that county will meet probably to-morrow night to denounce the ex-Senator and declare their antagonism to Judge Field. Mr. Pearce says that Dr. Gwin knows that the Convention was strongly against Judge Field, and that the California Democrats do not want him. Colonel Harry Thornton and Mr. Samuel M. Wilson were both candidates for delegates to Cincinnati before the Convention, and both were defeated because the were for Judge Field, and for no other rea son. The Democrats are furious to bear that they are understood in the East to favor Field. Old Democrats declare that they never had anything to arouse their anthey never had anything to arouse their anger so much. They do not care who the nominee may be, so long as they shall not have Judge Field to weigh down the ticket.

From the Metro-politan district Colonel William Royall, editor of the Commonicealth, was the leader

the leader of the young politicians in Virginia, and a determined opponent of the Mahone Readjusters movement. Judge E. C. Minor, of the same district, is another warm supporter of Field. Colonel Charles tain fastnesses of Franklin county, in the southwestern portion of the State, and is a reputation and a beautiful speaker. Colonel Preston Johnston, the son of General Albert Sidney Johnston, is one of the most popular men in the South-a friend of Kirkpatrick and Hale are popular men in the Conservative party. Major Bob Hunter, of Winchester, is both editor and politician-well-known as General Gordon's chief'of staff. Captain Aleck Payne, trict. Some of them are enthusiastic for Hancock as the ideal gentleman whom the South would prefer to all others. Many think that Hancock would be available, and some express the opinion that Tilden would do, in spite of the fact that the Virginia Convention ignored his claims. Seymour's position leaves them without any decided opinion on him. They consider Field as a very strong compromise candidate. The delegation left last night for Cincinnati. Seymour Speaks Definitely.

PHILDELPHIA, June 17.—The Times to-day contains the following important dispatch from Utica: The Times can say without fear of successful contradiction that Seymour will not decline the nomination for President. The stories in the New York Herald are almost totally unwarranted. While Seymour has never for a minute been a candidate, his position has finally settled down to this: On Monday Mayor Carter H. Harrison, of Chicago, and Mr. Munford, of the Kansas City Times, met Governor Seymour at Bagg's Hotel, in this place, when the subject was talked over in every way in the presence of the delegates of this district. It was finally put to Mr. Seymour in this manner by the spokesman,

"Mr. Seymour, we come here for a positive answer to a plain question. We do not ome here to urge you to become a candidate, and if we can find another man who can carry enough electoral votes to win we will do our best to nominate bim; but if it should appear at Cincinnati that you are the only sure man-in fact, the Moses to lead
